1. Partner organisation overview

The Cook Islands Child Welfare Association (CICWA) is one of the oldest non-profit voluntary organisations in the Cook Islands. They were formed in 1933 by a small group of women who dedicated their time to helping Clinical Nurses throughout community clinics on Rarotonga.

Today, CICWA works closely with the Cook Islands Ministry of Health - Te Marae Ora, and Clinical Public Health Nurses to promote health awareness and to monitor the health care of young children aged 0-4 years.

Paunu clinics (similar to Plunket check clinics in New Zealand) include the weighing of babies, checking of skin conditions, discussing any problems with parents, and ensuring vaccinations are up to date.

Paunu clinics are held across 17 clinics on Rarotonga, 3 clinics on Aitutaki, 6 on Mangaia and 1 clinic each in Mauke, Mitiaro and Atiu.

CICWA also run health promotion programmes, and plan and create workshops in order to improve the health of children and families.

2. Assignment overview

The focus of this assignment is to support the development of Child Welfare as a community service. This is primarily with the Paunu, and the monitoring of children and mothers' health on Rarotonga and the outer islands.

The volunteer will work alongside the CICWA team to deliver its services with more flexibility, accessibility and knowledge. They will work with the team to improve access and attendance at clinics, and ensure specialist clinical services are evidence based and are meeting the needs of client families.

The volunteer will also work closely with, and develop the capacity of, the volunteers who are instrumental to the running of the clinics, developing and delivering relevant training sessions, and providing ongoing advice and support.

Engaging with other community stakeholders and service providers is another key role that the volunteer will undertake and support Child Welfare members with.
